

Para PR2 mixed double sculls (PR2Mix2x)

Match-up: Tianming Fei & Shuang Liu (CHN) vs. Stephane Tardieu & Perle Bouge (FRA)

The PR2 mixed double sculls is relatively new to the world of rowing, but one of the earliest successful competitors were Tianming Fei and Shuang Liu of China. Fei won gold at the 2012 Paralympic Games in London, before partnering up with Liu to take silver at the 2016 Paralympic Games in Rio. Together, the duo's best time was 3:58.45 over the 1000m distance.

They will line up against France's Stephane Tardieu and Perle Bouge. Together this French duo won a silver medal at the 2012 Paralympic Games and went on to take the World Championship title in 2013. Tardieu and Bouge came back in 2016 to win a bronze medal in Rio, with their best time together at 3:59.93 for the 1000m distance.

What if these two doubles lined up against each other, both in their prime?
